Morgan Sindall Construction Burlington Junior School expansion

Dear All,

Finally after 27 months here on site at Burlington School it's time for Morgan Sindall to say goodbye.

We are just finishing the works to the car park in readiness for the return to school after half term.

It has been a fantastic journey creating these wonderful new facilities for the Nursery, Infant and Junior schools.

In our time here we have provided new toilets for the Infants, 2 new MUGA pitches, new playground areas with play equipment, built the new junior block, refurbished parts of the old Victorian Building and a new car park for all schools to share.

In our final weeks here we are undertaking the works to the car park and new junior playground. There's lots going on with fencing, tarmac works and the installation of many new plants and trees.

Fact of the month: During these works we have laid many hundreds of tons of tarmac. Tarmacadam, tarmac for short, was invented by Edgar Purnell Hooley in 1902 and it was a development based on the principles of the Macadam roads pioneered by Scottish engineer John Loudon McAdam. Although it may all look the same there are 3 different types here on this site which are vehicular tarmac, pedestrian tarmac and permeable tarmac.

SUSTAINABILITY

Our aim is to be as sustainable as possible throughout the project:

Waste: Reused or recycled so far: 281Tons
People: Local employees - 10
Profit: Local business contracts – 2

How the site looked before we started.

Morgan Sindall are really proud to have been one of the many teams of people delivering these wonderful new education facilities. It has been a real pleasure working alongside so many wonderful people who all have the same aim, which is to provide the best we can for the children. We at Morgan Sindall wish you all the best for the future.
